STATE DIVISION. An Interesting Legal Opinion

About It. Judge R. M. Widney Says the People Have Voted to Divide.

Almost Forgotten.

An Election Held in 1860 and Nov

A large proportion of the residents of this city and county will doubtless be surprised to know that the question of State division has already been voted affirmatively by the people, and that whenever we wish to cut adrift from the Northern portion of the State and paddle our own cance all we have

For accurate information on this point, a TIMES reporter yesterday called upon Judge R. M. Widney, than whom there is perhaps no man better informed upon things appertaining to Southern California, to learn what had been done in the past with respect to this important question and how matters were at present. The reporter found Judge Widney in the private office of the University Bank and opened the conversation by remarking:

"Judge Widney, in an address made of the division of California into two States, and you stated upon that occasion that a vote had once been taken upon that question. THE TIMES would like to tell its readers something more on that subject and would like the benefit of your knowledge." Yes, sir, "repiled Judge Widney, "such a vote was taken, and here is the statute under which the question was called up and submitted to the people."

The reporter examined the volume handed to him, upon the title page of which was inscribed:

"The statutes of California, passed at the tenth session, begun on Monday, the 3d day of January, and ended on Tuesday, the 19th day of April, 1850."

The first and second sections of the statute to which reference was made, and of whose existence many are ignorant, reads as follows:

Chapter colxxxviii. An act granting the consent of the Legislature to the formation of a different Government for the Southern counties of this State.

The people of the State of California, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

Approved april 18, 1800.

Approved april 18, 1800.

Approved april 18, 1800.

Approved april 18, 1800.

Section 1. That the consent of the Legislature of this State is bereby given to the effect that all of that part or portion of the present territory of this State, lying all south of a line drawn eastward from the west boundary of the State, along the sixth standard parallel; south of the Mt. Diablo meridian, east to the summit of the Coast Range; then southerly, following said summit to the soventh standard parallel; thence due cast on sein northwest boundary of Los Angeles dountry; thence northwest boundary of Los Angeles dountry; thence northwest boundary of Los Angeles dountry; thence northwest boundary of the State, including the counties of San Luis Oblepo, Santa Barbara, Los Angeles, San Diego, San Bernardino, and a part of Buena Vista, be segregated from the remaining portion of the State for the purpose of the formation by Congress, with the concurrent action of said portion—the conseat for the segregation of which is hereby granted—of a territorial or other government, under the name of the "Territory of Contrado and a part of Buena Vista, be segregated from the remaining portion of the State for the purpose of the hand of the "Territory of Contrado and a part of Buena Vista, to the summer of the contradiction of the same sum and the contradiction of the same sum and the summer of the summer of of indebtedness and property rights between the two States, or States and Gerritory.

"Under this statute" continued Judge Widney, "the Governor submitted the question to the people of the southern part of the State at the next election. The required two-thirds vote in favor of a division was cast, the result duly certified to the Secretary of State, by him to the Governor, and by him to the President of the United States and our members in Congress. There the matter has rested ever since."

"Why do you suppose that it was never called up in Congress, Judge?"

"Welf, there may have been several reasons. Of course none of these can be more than inferential ones, except to the active participants and pushers of the measure at that time. It may be that the division scheme was gotten up in the interest of the Southern States. When consideration is given to the positions of the men most actively engaged in it, and the political complexion of a majority of the residents of Southern California at that time, the supposition is not unreasonable that the movers intended at the right moment to call up the matter in Congress and have this portion admitted as an additional Southern State, subject to the regulations of such, regarding slavery and kindred matters. But the turn which affairs took at that time did away with the possibility of such a thing. Or, it might have been that in the excitement and attention given to more important matters, this was overlocked, and nothing has since occurred to bring it out of its obscure resting-place."

"What is your opinion as to the status of the question now, as determined by the law and the election then had?"

"The whole case has remained in statu quo since that time. The law has never been repealed; the action of the people has never been repealed; the action of the people has never been med for another election on the question, so far as the law and facts are concerned. Several of the most influential papers in the northern part of the State section, so far as the law and facts division."

"I suppose you may be put down as favoring such an idea?"
"Yes, I have been in favor of it from the first. I think all the soundest reasons are on that side of the question. The area of the State is very large and very much diversified in many respects. The location of the seat of government is very inconvenient. I think that with our State divided, the people of this portion could construct a form of government and enact laws without the interference of machine politics that would be vastly more advantageous to the features, production and population of this section than any we can now secure. In my opinion, it is only a question of time when such division will take place. It is bound to come, sconer or later, and the only question to be considered is whether the proper time has not now arrived for such action on the part of the people of Southern California."

A Robber Gets a Dose of His Own Medicine.

Rather a peculiar case of "stand up" occured on Washington street the other night. A Geman butcher, who keeps a shop on the corner of Ninth and Main streets, was on his way down town to have a "liddle dime mit der peer pottle," when a great big dark-faced man jumped out from behind a dark corner and ordered the fleshy butcher to throw up his hands. The slasher of pig's meat obeyed like a little man. He had heard somewhere that the best way to get along with a highwayman is to obey every order without throwing in any back talk, and when the dark thief ejaculated:

any back talk, and when the dark thief ejaculated:
"Yo give Injun all money yo got dam quick," the butcher began to dig up. The thief had him covered with an ugly-looking, old-style Colt's revolver, and when his hand went down into his pocket the thief cocked it and shoved it an inch or too closer to his nose.
"I don't got much monish, but, Mr. Dief, you vas velcom to all I haf got," came mournfully from the German, and he held a single silver dollar in the moonlight.
"Injun heep not big dam fool. Give more money or Injun shoot like hell," and he stepped a little closer to the butcher. It was a fatal step for the thief, for his foot struck a rock and he stambled. Before he could recover himself the butcher knocked the pistol to one side and grabbed the would-be murderer. He followed up the advantage and was soon the pessessor of the pistol. The Indian scampered off and the butcher stood in his tracks too badly frightened to order him to stop or to give chase. He recognized the thief as a big burly Indian who has been hanging around town for two or three weeks.

Frodienburg and his wife have lived in Orange for a number of years and the man was always considered an industrious, honest little fellow, and no one could believe night before last that he had attempted to kill the woman whom he seemed to worship. He made the first attempt early in the evening while several ladies were visiting. He rushed into the room, howling like a madrushed into the room, howling like a madman, and as soon as he caught sight of his wife he grabbed a chair, and would have killed her had not the other women thrown themselves on him. They knocked him down and held him until his wife made her escape from the nous. They then gave the alarm, and Fordlenburg escaped from the house. The neighbors feared his return, and several of them stood guard over his wife, who was frightened almost to death. They did not have long to wait before the man returned with an axe, and made a second attempt to kill his wife. He was overpowered then, and, amid the greatest excitement, he was taken to Santa Ana, where they kept him tied and handcuffed all night. He was tied hand and foot, when the constable took him to the County Jail, in this city, yesterday afternoon, and when the officers attempted to release him he became so violent that the Sheriff had to put him in a straight jacket. It is believed that he has gone suddenly mad, and the Commission of Lunacy will take him in head today.

The Charge of Attempted Robbery

The cases of McLelian and Starr, accused

Justice Austin all of yesterday forenoon.
The case was well defended, Messrs. Mc

Last night at 10 o'clock a man rushed into the police station and informed the officers that a man was hanging around the street in front of a house on Fifth street, near Los Angeles, trying to get a shot at his wife, who was divorced from him a short time ago. When Officer Dalton arrived at the house the man had disappeared. He is the man who married a woman who kept a restaurant on Second street, in front of the police station, and spent her money at such a rate that she obtained a divorce. George Washington Maxwell Suddenly Evacuates.

Leaving His Partner to Pay the Bills Which Are Many.

He's Gone, and Even Maxwell's Dir Doesn't Disclose His Present Address— Wouldn't Celebrate the Fourth—

There is wailing and gnashing of teeth in the bosom of the firm of George W. Maxwell & Co., publishers of the city directory. The firm had its office in room No. 2, Wilson block, on First street, between Spring and Main street, but the office fixtures have walked off. A Times reporter visited the old office yesterday afternoon and found it full of dust, old scraps of paper and emptiness. The room looked as if it had seen a good deal of business during the past few months, but the bare walls refused to tell the story of Maxwell's troubles, and the reporter had to seek other sources. Last Monday was the Fourth of July, as a number of sore-headed patriots will remember, and in the forenoon of that day the office of the directory publishers was in full blast. The working member of the firm, went out to celebrate. He had a light heart, and wished to see the whole world happy, so he insisted on his partner Maxwell going out with him; but that gentleman was full of business and insisted on remaining in the office. His excuse was that he wished to get their business straightened up before the 5th, so that they could put their books on the market at once. The working member of the firm thought Maxwell was becoming industrious very suddenly, and he left the office with a slight suspicion that all was not right. He celebrated the Fourth, and went to the office Tuesday morning. On his deak he found a note from Maxwell, in which he said he had jumped the City of Angels and would nevermore return to its orange groves. The portion of the note that struck the "Co." of the firm between wind and water was a tearful request that he settle all the debts of the firm between wind and water was a tearful request that he settle all the debts of the firm and Maxwell's personal debts at once. He did not give any reason for his sudden leave-taking, but the "Co." mourns his loss to the tune of $1000. At least he has discovered, up to date, that he is out that much, and yet he has not made a thorough examination into the debts contracted b

To his shame be it said that, although the driver of the vehicle—a well-dressed and gentlemanly-looking man—could not help but see that the child was painfully cut on the limbs by the feet of the horse and the wheel of the buggy which ran over it, he just glanced back long enough to see the child lying in the road, and then putting the whip to the animal drove off in a southerly direction at an increased rate of speed, without waiting an instant to see what damage had been done. The mother of the child ran out immediately and picked the little sufferer up and took it into the house, where it was found that while the cuts and bruises looked very bad, none of them were in the least dangerous. They must have been quite painful, and one cut on its ankle will probably always shwascar. The name of the driver of the buggy could not be ascertained, and although the accident was not his fault, if his name and residence had been known to some of the bystanders who saw the affair, he would have had a chance to explain his cowardly action in driving off without at least seeing the result of the accident.

McLain & Lehman Secure the Premises for One.

McLain & Lehman are in luck. They secured yesterday a twenty-year lease on the Moerenhaut property, east side of Main street, between Fourth and Fifth, and will shortly begin the erection thereon of a first-class Tivoli. The building will front 80 feet on Main street and run back 293 feet. It will be two stories high, with three stories in front, the entrance being next north of the southernmost store. The stage is to be 50 feet deep, and will have a 35-foot opening. This establishment will, indeed, fill a long-feit want, and the enterprising projectors—who will put the work through as rapidly as possible—will reap a descreed reward.

Santa Fé freight depot on June 8th, and had some difficulty in getting to the depot platform, on account of there being a lot of wagons there loaded with loose dirt. I managed after a while to get to the platform, when Leahy stepped up to me and claimed that it was his turn to unload before me. I disputed this, and he them said that it would take a better man than me to wanted no difficulty with him, and was willing that the matter should be referred to the foreman of the freight depot, who decided that the first at the platform had the right to unload. I was first there, but Leahy was on the ground before me. I then unloaded, and was on the end of my truck, going to drive off, when Leahy caught me by my suspenders and ollied me off, breaking the him then, but I was only defending myself.

We then clinched, and, falling, I felt his tried to push him away. I am almost certain I did not get my finger in his eyes, although I might have done so. I did not as I could before they were hurt. FRED GORDON, sworn, testified that he was the

I saw that Gordon had his left hand tied up in a handkerchief, and heard him say he had a sore hand and didn't want to fight. A writ of habeas corpus was issued by a Justice of the Supreme Court of this State namely, Hon. T. R. McKarland, and made returnable before a Judge of this court. Upon the hearing of the return, certain arrenants were entered into and certain simplalations made whereby all merely technical objections to the judgment were waived, in order that the question of the constitutionality of the ordinance violated by petitilitioner might be reached directly and determined. By this straightforward course the Court is brought face to face with the main problem in the case. In the same spirit the Court will decide the matter, without regard to the sentiment which sometimes colors the discussion of the legal questions arising out of the sale of ilquors and the attempts to control, regulate and prohibit the same.

The question before the Court is one of old law, to wit: Had the trustees of the dity of Pasadena the constitutional right to make and enforce such an ordinance as the one for violating which the petitioner was tried and convicted?

The Court is entreated, at the outset of the argument of counsel for petitioner, to disregard precedents, and decide the questions presented by them as though they were entirely fresh in the field of legal problems; at least, counsel appear to be anxious that this Court must decline to bacome so radical as counsel desire. So far as it is necessary for the purposes of this decident of the constitution of the United States. Section 803 of the Municipal Corporation act of 1883, subdivision 1, reads as follows: "The Board of Trustees of said city shall have power: First—To pass ordinances not me conflict with the Constitution and laws of this State or of the United States."

Here we have the special language of the constitution of the State, which language of the Constitution of the State, which language, it has been aptly said, is "a charter in itself." In prohibiting the Legislature from enerting local and special laws in certain numerated cases, it was the intention of the people of the State to relegate the regulation of certain local affairs to the local egislature bodies, and it does not follow (as sounsel appear to argue) that because the State Legislature cannot enact a law regulating, restraining, or prohibiting the sale of liquors in Pasadena, that therefore the local legislature of that city cannot do so.

The Constitution of the State gives to the city the power to "make and enforce within its limits all such local, police, sanitary and other regulations as are not in conflict with ther regulations as are not in conflict with teneral laws."

Is this a police regulation?

The power of the Legislature to pass such two, even to the extent of prohibiting as sale of liquors must, as the Court has fore stated, be conceded, in the light of the many decisions rendered by the courts last resort in sevent of the courts.

laws, even to the extent of prohibiting the sale of liquors must, as the Court has before stated, be conceded, in the light of the many decisions rendered by the courts of last resort in several States; and under the Constitution of California I can find no restrictions upon the exercise of that power, except that the Legislature may not pass local and special laws. In other words, the Legislature might enact a general law regulating, restraining or prohibiting the sale of liquors, and it could, in my opinion, be constitutionally enforced, and the enactment of such a law would come within the seneral police powers of the State.

"All power rests in the Legislature, not prohibited by the Constitution of this State or of the United States."—Ex parte McClain, 61, California, 457.

The Constitution of this State takes from the Legislature a portion of that power and laces it in the hands of the local Legislatures, by section 11, article X1, of the Constitution; and the police powers so relegated to the counties, cities, towns and townships of the State, when exercised within the limits of the county, city or town, are as broad, are as high, are as extensive as the general police powers of the State. Their nature has not been altered by the change of paternity. The Legislature enacts such laws when not forbidden, and the rustees of the city pass them when empowered to do so, and I am convinced may do so until they run against the stone wall of a general law.

Neither the charter nor the Constitution has narrowed the police powers of the city to confinement between closer walls than those which bound the general police powers of the city to confinement between closer walls than those which bound the general police powers of the corporate limits of the city.

Is the ordinance in conflict with general laws?

Is the ordinance in conflict with general laws?

I know of no general laws of the State of California upon the subject, excepting such as restrain or prohibit the sale of intexteating liquors within certain distances of the "e Prison, Insane Asylum, University of california and the State Capitol, and for-ciding the sale of such liquors to minors and others, and fixing the limit of accounts for retail sales which may be collected at law, and other acts of a like nature. If there are others of a different character, they have not been called to the attention of the Court, and so far as they go, if they are indicative at all of a State policy, it is of a policy consonant with the spirit of this ordinance. This is the law as the Court finds it, and these are the conclusions the Court reaches in the absence of any decision to the contrary in this State.

Let the petitioner be remanded.

Secretary Board of Trade, Los Angeles, Cel.—Dean Sir: An enterprise has been anneled in this community, which will weve one of the most important events of he current year. I have been instructed to communicate with you thus early for the surpose of bringing before you the deitrability of having a display at the National Agricultural Exposition from Southern Californis.

and will continue thereafter for forty-five days, closing on the 1st day November. Although the exhibition will embrace every Industrial product and manufacured article, yet its chief and most pronounced feature will be its grand display of every description of agricultural products and machinery. The grounds on which the building will stand are ample and elegantiy located. The central exposition hall will be an ornamental architectural structure, 450 by 255 feet, three floors, with ample annexes. It is proposed to devote special pavilions and pagodas to each of the leading agricultural states and Territories, and to the most important counties of Kansas, Nebraska, Missouri, Texas, Dakota, Iowa and California. Pyramids and obelisks will also be constructed of leading cereals, such as wheat, corn, oats, etc., upon which their respective products for a series of years will be appropriately marked, thus serving as pleasing object lessons to the visitors.

Last year Southern California was represented at Chicago by what was known as the citrus exhibition. I was in Chicago at the time, and was very much delighted with the representation from your section. Ibelieve it was not only an entertaining, but a very profitable venture. Why would it not be feasible to represent Southern California in the same manner at our agricultural exposition? We expect some of the biggest capitalists in the East here this fall to inaugurate this great enterprise, and I believe that large investments could be induced in Southern California properties through this instrumentality.

Please give the matter your attention, and present it to some of your leading eitizens. Ask the newspapers to say something about it, and if it is possible to represent the fruitful regions of Southern California, we will certainly give them the best space we have, and as large a space as it may require.

Trusting that you will favor this great agricultural demonstration, 1 am, very truly yours,

NATIONAL AGRICULTURAL EXPOSITION.

yours,
NATIONAL AGRICULTURAL EXPOSITION.
By H. S. Wicks, Secretary.
Little need be said to impress the people of this section with the importance of having at the forthcoming Kansas City Exposition an exhibit of Southern California products, such as here suggested. The success of the Chicago exhibit referred to is well known, and probably Southern California is now reaping and will continue to reap the products of the good seed there sown.

But the Chicago exhibit had in it a money-making feature, which induced a number of enterprising citizens to take hold of it and push it as they would any other business enterprise. It was not designed strictly pro bono publico; had it been, perhaps it would not have been carried through so swimmingly.

In organizing an exhibit to be placed in a fair, the matter of possible gain would not figure, and it would be scription. Undoubtedly a great share of the fruit and specimens of other products would be donated, but there would be considerable expenses to meet in boxing, shipping, paying superintendence, labor, etc. A display, to be creditably maintained through six weeks, must necessarily be renewed more or less, and this means continued expense and the keeping up of a work ing organization at both ends of the

It is no slight undertaking to get up an exhibit such-as the Kansas City people call for, and one which will be a credit to Southern California. Our people know how to do it, however, and, if they work themselves up to the requisite pitch of enthusiasm, they will do it. It will pay the biggest kind of a dividend in newly-awakened interest in Southern California and the increased tide of immigration which will flow hitherward in consequence. Kansas City is a progressive, wealthy and populous place which it is good to cultivate. The people whom she sends here know exactly how to take hold of a boom, and they are the people we want. Let's have a representation at Kansas City without fail.

Diego and San Bernardino counties, the people; was carried by the required the Governor, and that the documents are on file in Washington, awaiting the action of Congress. This step for State division was taken away back in 1859. It has slumbered as a dead-letter law ever since, but has never been revoked, and, should Congress now choose to recognize it, nothing could prevent a division of this State.

We do not pretend to say that this would be an exactly fair way to bring about State division—at least, it would not be open and above board without resubmission to a vote of the people.

The facts in the case are recited in an interview with Judge R. M. Widney, which THE TIMES publishes today.

MRS. LANGTRY.—The advance sale of season tickets for Mrs. Langtry's engagement here next week opened yesterday very promisingly. Los Angeles is a first-class city for first-class theatrical attractions; and Mrs. Langtry certainly comes under that head. She will be handsomely greeted here without doubt.

Mrs. Langtry is to make her first appearance in A Wife's Pertl as "Lady Ormond," of which impersonation the strenuous critic of the London Times says: "The psychology of the character is fully grasped, and its varying moods of ennus, tenderness, alarm and desperation which mark the progress of the unreflecting young wife toward danger, and her sudden recoil from it are intelligently and feelingly expressed.

Admirably delicate in her portrayal of the growth of her guilty passion, the actress rises to the full height of the thrilling scene in which she asserts the dignity of her womanhood and overcomes her temptation and stirs the house to loud and prolonged applause."

members of the board for transmission to the County Board:

To the Honorable the Board of Education of Los Angeles County:

Whereas, in the examination recently held by your body, only one out of sixty applicants was permitted to go in the effort to secure a first-grade certificate, and this result repeats quite largely that of several previous examinations; and

Whereas, we believe that many experienced and excellent teachers, whose testimonlals from competent authorities in our sister States are of the best, are thus prevented from giving us the benefit of their work, we, the members of the Board of Education of the city of Los Angeles, respectfully ask your honorable body to so modify your list of questions as to make the results of these examinations turn more upon the ability of the applicant to discuss intelligently the theory and practice of teaching, and to present methods which recommend themselves as judicious, than upon the solution of complicated questions in a rithmetic, which have but little practical bearing upon the usefulness and success of a teacher.

Mrs. Averill explained the reason for the bearing upon the useruntess and success of a teacher.

Mrs. Averill explained the reason for the introduction of the above, and placed before the board a copy of the questions as propounded at the late examinations, reading a number of these to show their slight bearing upon the actual usefulness of a teacher. F. S. Graham then introduced the following motion, which was carried:

Out of the first panel six were retained, and at 10 o'clock the work of securing a jury was completed. The following were sworn to try the case: Einas Black, Clark Harrison, H. K. Gay, Mark Hubbard, W. H. Cushman, T. H. Harlan, Edward Davis, Samuel Glimour, D. Cowart, Jacob Ellison, Matthew Edge and J. M. Johnson. The Clerk read the information, charging Hong Di, whose correct name is Ho Ah Heung, with the murder of Mrs. Joseph Billiou, after which he stated to the jury that at the arraignment Hong Di pleaded not guilty.

that at the arraignment Hong Di pleaded not guilty.

District Attorney Albery then proceeded to address the jury, stating what the prosecution expected to prove. He described the situation of the dining-room where Mrs. Billiou, Anna and Mand and William H. Weaver had just finished supper, and the incidents which followed. Mr. Albery is a tall, slim man, and presents a commanding appearance, holding the attention of each juryman. He closed his statements by saying: "We expect to make out a full case of cold-blooded murder, and should we do so, we expect a verdict accordingly."

The prosecution then asked for an adjournment until 1:15, in order to present plats and plans of the Billiou residence, which were being drawn. The request was granted.

which were being drawn. The request was granted.

WEAVER TESTIFIES.

William H. Weaver was called as the first witness on behalf of The People, and testifiled that he was 36 years old; that he was at the residence of Joseph Billiou, in Colusa county, at the time of the murder. His testimony was as follows: "I was engaged in hauling wood at the lower ranch during the day. Would get up about daylight in the morning, go to the lower ranch, chop a load of wood, return to dinner at about 11 o'clock, and go for another load in the afternoon. On the fatal day I returned at about 5:30, unhitched the team and unloaded the wood, went to the bunk-house and put on a coat, then went to the pump and washed and returned to the bunk-house, where I was when the bell -rang for supper, at about 6:15. Went to the house and sat on the steps until the family came out into the hall to go into the diningroom."

out into the hall to go into the diningroom."

Here diagrams were produced in evidence.
One showed the positions at the table. On the north side of the table at the northwest corner sat Weaver. Annie Billiou sat at the head of the table, Mand opposite Weaver, and Mrs. Billiou at the southeast corner, diagonally from Weaver. Mr. Billiou was absent in San Francisco when the diagrams were explained and put in evidence. A juror desired to know who rang the bell for supper, which Weaver could not answer.
Weaver continued his testimony: "While at supper the conversation was regarding a jenie which was to occur in the neighborhood, and little Mand wanted to know whether her father would return in time for the plcnic. About the time they had finished supper, and had moved back their chairs, Hong Di brought in a lamp and then went out, after which the door opened.

with her right arm under her. After this I heard some one running and a shuffling of feet and Anna ran out of the door. A few moments later I heard a fall. I told Mand to close the doors and Anna came in. I asked her what it was, tramps or what and she replied: It was Hong, the cook. I saw him shoot you. I then told her to close the doors. A few moments later I told Anna to look quick and see what she could see. She did and whang went the gun. She exclaimed, Oh! I asked her if she was hurt and she said she was not, but the ball passed close to her.

At this time witness said he was on his feet at the kitchen door with a carving-knife in his hand. For a few minutes quiet reigned, when Weaver said it was time for Maud to go for assistance. Anna hoisted the window and Mand jumped out. Weaver was still at the door and he heard the gun go off again, the ball passing in front of him out of the window. In a few moments there came a pounding on the door where Weaver was standing. Anna thought it was another shot. A few more pounds on the outside drove in the panel, which passed by Weaver and he caught at it.

"I looked out," said Weaver, "and there stood the defendant, Hong Di, Weaver then explained that the ball struck him in the back, and came out at his breast. Mrs. Billion made but slight noise, as she fell dead.

Weaver further stated that after the shooting, when he came out of the dining-room he saw a Chinese apron and shoes there.

Weaver was dismissed.

OTHER TESTIMONY.

After a recess of five minutes Dr. Gray was put on the stand. He testified that he was a physician and surgeon, and made a post-mortem examination on the body of Mrs. Billiou; that the ball produced almost instant death.

Oscar Robinson, the Coroner, was sworn, and produced three of the bullets shot, which were submitted. He said that he fitted the ax which Hong used into seven places in the door that were chopped. He telegraphed Mr. Billiou to come home.

At this period, 4 p.m., the court and jury were almost overcome with heat, and the court adjourned to 9 a.m. tomorrow.

THE POPE'S POSITION.

THE POPE'S POSITION.

An Explanation of His Attitude Toward Italy.

Vienna, July 7.—[By Cable and Associated Press.] A circular letter of June 16th from Rampolla, the Papal Secretary of State, to the Papal Nuncios, is published here. It embraces the leading passages of the Allocution of the Pope, delivered at the consistory May 33d. Rampolla says part of the Allocution, which referred to the attitude of the Vatican toward the people of Italy, has been given an interpretation which cannot be allowed to gain credence. It is necessary for a proper understandling of the intention of the Pope that the passages should be known in their entirety. There is nothing extraordinary in the wishes expressed by the Pope for a cessation of conflict between the Vatican and Government of Italy. No one can be unaware of the evils existing. The church itself suffers from this state of things. They who believe that the Pope's charitable words are intended to sanction accomplished facts against the church are in error. The Roman question must be settled in such manner as will secure to the Pope complete liberty of alactory. It is beyond the power of the Italian Government to change the conditions of the Pope. It is in this light that the Nuncios' explanation must be made to the different governments at the same time they are trying to obtain their support, in conformity with the views of the Vatican. The circular in conclusion points out all the States interested in a settlement of the question.

Certain settlers went on the latter tract and tried to take it up under the homestead laws. Commissioner-General Lang rejected their claim on the ground that the land was held on reservation. The Secretary, in his decision, reverses that decision, and awards the land to settlers. The decision is based on the act of February 14, 1855, which limits the amount that may be reserved for the purposes of a fort to 640 acres. The Secretary holds that the President had no authority to put in reservation an amount greater than that fixed by Congress, and that the excess over that amount is subject to the disposal of the general land laws.

Grand Army Men of Clinton, N. Y., Also Utter a Protest Against Cleveland

By Telegraph to The Times.

Washington, July 7.—[By the Associated Press.] Under date of July 4th President Cleveland writes Mayor Francis, of St. Lonis, stating that on account of the hostile expressions on the part of certain members of the G. A. R. in regard to the propriety of his visiting St. Louis at the time of the National Encampment, he had decided not to make the visit. He refuses to believe that the G. A. R. deem it a part of their mission to compass any object by attempting to coerce the Executive, yet the expressions indicate an intention to mar an occasion that should be harmonious. He would submit to insults rather than disappoint the citizens if he alone were concerned. If, however, any are determined to denounce him and his acts at the encampment he believes they should be permitted to do so, unrestrained by his presence. He concludes by extending hearty thanks for the kindness of the citizens.

It is practically settled that the Fresident will not visit the West at all during the present year. The abandonment of his proposed visit to St. Louis has resulted in wholly changing whatever plans he had made for visiting Western cities. It is said at the White House that the only plans the President has made for leaving Washington during the summer and autumn are those for his visit to Clinton, N. Y., on the 18th, which will probably not consume more than a week's time, and for his visit to Atlanta in October next, on the occasion of the Georgia State fair.

ST. LOUIS INDIGNANT.

The Mossback Element Inclined to Clamor for Cleveland.

St. Louis, July 7.—[By the Associated Press.] The President's letter to Mayor Francis, withdrawing his acceptance of the invitation of the people of St. Louis to visit the city during the G. A. R. Encampment, has stirred up a hot and diversifed expression of opinion. The committee that took the invitation to the President feel their labor has been in vain and are strong in denunciation of the men who were instrumental in the defeat of their plan. Their friends are equally displeased, especially so as the citizens generally of St. Louis had made a great effort to induce the President to make the visit. The chagrin was so great with many that they wished to organize immediately to invite the Grand Army to find another place for their encampment, and some promised a very ley reception to the gallant soldiers. There were many tothers, however, who saw the wisdom of the President's course, and were displeased that the city has been humiliated, and are indignant about it, but agree that the Grand Army Encampment shall be a glorious success, and that at some other time the President shall have a reception in keeping with the high office he holds. A committe was appointed to draw up resolutions to be submitted to a mass meeting of citizens that will be called to assemble at Merchants' Exchange tomorrow afternoon.

These resolutions will embody an invitation to the President to visit the city during the fair week, early in October, or at some other time that may suit his convenience, and will promise him an entitusiastic reception. A citizens' committee will then be appointed to again visit the President and endeavor to induce him to come.

WASHINGTON, July 7.—[By the Associated Press.] The following is a copy of the letter inviting the President to be present at the meeting in that city of the Grand Army of the Republic.

St. Louis (Mo.), Feb. 26, 1887.—Grover Cleveland, President of the United States—Sir: The National Encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic will be held in this city during September next, from the 28th to the 30th, inclusive. It promises to be the largest gathering of veterans of the late war ever seen. The organization was never in so flourishing a condition, and the membership never so large as at the present time. It will be the first encampment located in a city near the center of the country, and the first ever held in a Southern State. Our people are sparing no effort to insure for the assemblage a wel-come of unusual warmth and a reception Southern State. Our people are sparing no effort to insure for the assemblage a welcome of unusual warmth and a reception the most hospitable. The undersigned are a committee appointed by the general committee on arrangements for the purpose of extending to yourself and your, esteemed wife a cordial and urgent invitation to be present on that occasion, and to accept the hospitalities of the committee and their city. Every exertion will be made by our clitzens, as well as the 10,000 veterans there to be congregated, to render your visit pleasant and your stay interesting. It is rumored that you are planning a tour through the West and South, and we sincerely hope that you can be in St. Louis during the time above mentioned. Allow us to suggest that no compliment more fitting could be bestowed upon the vallant defenders of a common country by the Chief Executive of a restored Union, and none would be more highly appreciated than that conferred by his presence at such a time and place. Awaiting your favorable response, we have the honor to be, yours respectfully, DAVID R. FRANCIS, President of Merchants' Exchange.

The sale of lots made by the San Gabriel Valley Land and Water Company, on Wednesday last, was unprecedented in the history of our county. The same enthusiasm prevailed yesterday as was exhibited the day before, and the sales were remarkable. This can not be wondered at, as no such property has ever been offered the public, considering the prices paid in Los Angeles county. The immense business already at this point is sufficient evidence to the enthusiastic purchasers that it is the place for stores, banks, warehouses, etc., to meet the demands of the people, being the center of the most productive agricultural district in Southern California, and in the direct path of the great freight and passenger traffic between the East and the West, and being in the hands of the strongest syndicate in the State of California. We predict that Rast San Gabriel will be one of the most flourishing cities in the valley.

encircles the place. This broad avenue will be lined on each side with the choicest variety of plants and trees; from every part of the town the view is magnificent—unsurpassed for extent and variety.

A large amount of permanent improvement is well under way. A fine three-story hotel cocupies a central block. The building is modern in design, complete in appointments, and will soon become a delightful resort for health and pleasure seekers. A large bask block is going up, which in design and finish would be a credit to any place. A number of costly residences are building and many more are under contract to go up soon.

Ample provision is made for all public needs and no effort is spared to beautify and adorn the place. Ground is reserved for schools, churches and parks.

South Riverside will become noted for eauty of location, fine climate, active business, having all the advantage of a railroad center, and being near to Los Angeles and within easy reach of mountain and ecean resorts.

BOY WHO WAS LOST OFF Marvelous Escape from |Death-topping from a Flying Train-only Gravel-Scratched—A Plucky Heven-Year-Old.

Only Gravol-Scratched—A Pinoky Elsven-Year-Old.

Public interest has been deeply awakened by the account—printed exclusively in Tink Trues—of a boy falling from a train in artzona on Saturday night or Susday morning.

C. S. Hogan, determining to leave that inhospitable climate, Kansas, was en moute with his family to this land of sunshine and flowers, when he missed his 11-year-old boy about 3 o'clock Sunday morning, in the midst of an Arizoza desert. The lad had been seen in his berth at 10 o'clock, and at 3 in the morning was missing. Search was immediately made through the train, but in vain; and here begins the history of three days of the most thrilling interest. The history of these three days is fraught with more intense interest than is often crowded into a whole life. It reads almost like romance.

From 3 o'clock Sunday morning till 11 the agonized parents—were shirled over the drary burning desert in utter ignorance of the fate of their boy. Arriving at The Needles, dispatches were sent to every station which the train had passed from the time Rody was last seen till missed. The railroad authorities ordered all their trackmen to commence the search with all possible diligence; and 150 men, dropping overy other interest, were peering into every nook and corner with the keenest vision over that space of about eighty miles. But there was one in that crowd—for by the aid of a hand-car he passed over the entire distance—whose vision was strained to the thread of the train for his destination at University Place, whither the rest of the family had gone. No language can describe the feeling of that father as, weary, exhausted from the sace of body and unruterable anxiety.

distance—whose vision was strained to the utmost tension.

After two days' search, the anxious father gave up in despair, and boarded the train for his destination at University Place, whither the rest of the family had gone. No language can describe the feeling of that father as, weary, exhausted from the loss of sleep and unutretable anxiety, he tried to adjust himself on a seat for rest. Just behind him was a man trying to fit himself to the angles of his temporary couch, with the remark that he had slept but little for several nights. Said Mr. Hogan in reply, "That is my fix, as I have been looking day and night for my lost boy, whom we missed from the train last Sunday morning."

"How large a boy?"

"Eleven years old."

"Ethink I can tell you where your boy is. A ranchman living thirty miles from here found a boy of that description wandering along the railroad on Sunday morning."

"Indeed! How can I find my way there!"

"I will go for him."

along the railroad on Sunday morning."
"Indeed! How can I find my way there?"
"I will go for him."
The happy father waited at the station, and had the joy of embracing his lost boy. The lad on Saturday evening had not felt well, but little was thought of it, and as near as can be surmised he arose froun his berth in a somnambulic condition, for he has no remembrance of anything till he found himself stretched upon the cold ground, hatless, shoeless and coatless, while the air was rent by the kowling of the coyotes of the desert. Here was an opportunity for a display of juvenile hereism. And right well did the lad measure up to the occasion. Fumbling in his pants pocket, his face mutilated by the terrible fall, he found a match, and at that midnight hour astonished the inhabitants of the desert with a novel sight—a bonfire. Withhout shedding a tear he lay down and slept till morning, when he was found as related above.

Had the ranchman had sufficient intelligence to keep the boy at the station near where he was found, instead of carrying him thirty miles into the country with bare arms, bare feet and bare head, with a face quite mutilated, he would have been found without a three days' search of 150 men.

A deep gorge, as Rody discovered in the morning, bridged by trestle-work, was but forty or fifty feet from where he fell, which, of course, would have been found without a three days' search of 150 men.

But "all is well that ends well." The father, with his boy, arrived safe at the home of Rev. F. B. Cherrington, his brother.

BOSTON HEIGHTS.

Great Donation Lot Sale July 11th, Boston Heights.

This delightful suburb, lying on the easterly side of Soto street, and extending from Brooklyn avenue northerly to the Mission road, and from Soto street to the city limits, comprises some of the most attractive locations for residence purposes to be found in the city of Los Angeles. The land has all been hitherto held in large tracts, offering no inducements to home-seekers and no opportunities for the small capitalist.

The first note of change is now sounded. The undersigned have made a subdivision of lands at BOSTON HEIGHTS recently owned by Lacy, Johnston and Tononi, mostly planted in bearing vines, in close proximity to the East Los Angeles Park of fifty acres, and commanding a most picturesque and extensive view of the surrounding country. We will offer

299 LOTS, AVERAGING 50x150

In size, at figures which will be found ridiculously low when compared with prices obtained for city lots at the same distance from the center in other directions, or for lots in new townsites fifteen miles away.

The new LOS ANGELES EAST SIDE WATER COMPANY, with its capital of half a million dollars, is preparing to supply the whole of this section of the city with the PUREST WATER, and in abundant quantity. In addition to the proposed street-car line along Brooklyn avenue,

A CABLE ROAD,

A part of the extensive city system of which Hon. J. F. Crank is President, is A part of the extensive city system of which Hon. J. F. Crank is President, is to be carried along Soto street, passing directly in front of these lots. These advantages will shortly cause a large increase in the value of the lots in this tract. NoW is the time to secure them. We will send carriages over to give an opportunity for inspection, and we think no unprejudiced person can visit the ground without desiring to buy a lot.

We do not offer to give away any cheap houses to stimulate the sale, but we want to close this property out quickly, and have put the prices down very low, making the terms one-third cash and balance in six and twelve months, with interest at 6 per cent. Sales under $400 half cash. As soon as the 299 lots are all subscribed for, and the first payment made, we will donate

$5000 IN U. S. GOLD COIN

Among the lot-buyers as follows:
One sum of $2500, gold coin.
One sum of $1500, gold coin.
One sum of $1000, gold coin.
Making a total sum of FIVE THOUSAND DOLLARS, payable immediately, to three of the respective buyers of lots, whose names shall be drawn under the supervision of the purchasers.

The sale of lots will begin at the office of Dobinson & Fairchild at 9 a.m.
July 11th, and thereafter at the offices of the undersigned.

It is very pleasant to take, which is one of the most im pleasant to take, which is one of the most im portant requisites where a cough remedy is intended for use among children.
